

Desktop

Phone

Image collapsed in mobile version to save screen space.

will expand to show
POST LOG IN APPROVE

Version 2

Developments made to this design for version 2.

1. This early design had prominent pictures of the figures included on the website. These were subsequently dropped from later versions of the project to emphasise its dictionary function and to remove potential copyright information infringements as users could upload images they did not have the rights to.
2. The purple and orange colour scheme was dropped for a muted green that better reflected the content. p.t.o.

Developments made to the design for version 2 continued

3. Log in functionality was removed from the second version of the site. This was due to some of the technical restrictions of Flask. Django is better suited to this user-centric development.
4. Given the importance of the post functionality, this was moved into the header.
5. Given that neither the header nor footer now had more than 2 options each, it was considered unnecessary to have a collapsing navbar.

Version 2

—————> Launch Page

Irish Biography  Write a biography

Date has been moved to a position of greater prominence.	 James Craig ✓ 1900 - 2000
	 Éamon De Valera ✓ 1900 - 2000
	 Dorothy MacArdle ✓ 1900 - 2000

Approve Posts

Future feature: This option would be hidden unless you were logged in as an admin.

See next page for design of post approval page

↑
more muted green colour scheme more suitable to nature of the project.

↓
Entries are now collapsible to improve functionality so users can scan names for figures of interest.

Posts Awaiting Approval

 Oscar Wilde ✓
1900 - 2000

 Mary Robinson
 1900 - 2000

Mary Robinson was... ~~~~~
~~~~~
~~~~~
~~~~~

Approve

edit

delete

Approve Posts

Header/Navbar and Footer will be provided by a base.html file

This is an expanded page with buttons for approval (in this mock they have been drawn too small).

Large clear title
to ensure user is aware of what page they are on.